WARSAW BRIDGES BLOWN UP; ARMY QUITS THE CAPITAL; FLIGHT FROM RIGA BEGUN

Berlin Reports Evacuation Is Admitted by Russian Envoy to Hague—Petrograd Admits Losses, but Hopes to Save Army.

BERLIN, (via wireless to Sayville), Aug. 4.—The Russian legation at The Hague has officially announced the evacuation of Warsaw, according to despatches received here to-day.

The evacuation was ordered because the Russian armies lacked ammunition to defend the city properly, the legation was quoted as saying. The destruction of the Vistula bridges has been ordered.

Despatches from the front say that the encircling of the Russian fortress of Ivanograd is proceeding.

The forces of Prince Leopold of Bavaria are now hurling themselves against the fortresses defending Warsaw, according to the official statement given out to-day by the German Army Headquarters Staff.

The statement adds that the Russians have been thrown from their position at Blonie, fifteen miles west of the Polish capital, back on to the outer line of defenses of the city.

RIGA, Aug. 4 (via Petrograd and London).—In obedience to orders for the removal of Government institutions, the state bank already has been transferred from Riga to Tula, to the south of Moscow. The other banks are being removed, and the educational institutions are being mainly transferred to Dorpat, 157 miles northeast of Riga.

The shipping agencies are overworked and are refusing further orders for the shipment of household goods.

Riga is the principal Russian seaport of the Baltic next to Petrograd and is an important commercial center. It has a population of about 300,000.

RUSSIANS ADMIT HEAVY LOSSES AS GERMANS PRESS ON

PETROGRAD, Aug. 4.—Gen. von Gallwitz's new drive southward toward the Petrograd-Warsaw Railway is being held up by stubborn Russian resistance along the railway leading through Vysok. It is officially admitted that the Slav losses in the past forty-eight hours have been very heavy.

A brief official bulletin to-day furnished only meagre information regarding the German assault from the north, but it is considered very encouraging in military circles. Last night's official communique reported the Germans making progress along the Narva River, but "only with enormous losses."

Military men take this to mean that the German advance has been brought to a halt, though with heavy sacrifice of lives. The belief prevails that if the Russian line on the Narva continues to hold for two more days the main Russian armies will have reached the new positions assigned for them beyond the Vistula.

"During the last three days," said the official statement, "the enemy has made enormous efforts to dislodge us from the sector of the Narva River from Ostrolenka to Lomza."

"In the district of... the enemy is conducting trench warfare, but in the exploding of mines we have continually held the..."

"On the Pissa and Skwa rivers the whole enemy army attacked us, having first launched against us reinforcements brought from France. Nevertheless we soon saw a complete...

GIRL IS RUN DOWN BY AUTO SPEEDING TO ESCAPE POLICE

Chauffeur Continues Flight After Car Hurls Miss Carlsen 12 Feet to Curb.

SMASH-UP ENDS CHASE.

Taxicab Crashes Into Lamp Post and Driver, Uninjured, Is Arrested.

On the thirteenth block of a wild fight through Harlem streets, a taxi-cab chauffeur, trying to escape arrest, ran his car into Miss Lillian Carlsen of No. 177 West One Hundredth Street, and sent her body hurtling through the air a dozen feet to the curbing.

Instead of stopping, however, the chauffeur continued his efforts to escape, but six blocks further, a turn around a corner on two wheels over a wet pavement smashed the taxicab into a lamp post and ended the chase.

An automobile commandeered by a policeman and several cars carrying eager spectators of the chase were trailing the taxicab when it hit Miss Carlsen and later when the lamp post wrecked it.

The chase started at Central Park West and Eighty-seventh Street at 10:30 o'clock last night. The taxi was showing no lights and Sergt. Brophy of the West One Hundredth Street Station says the driver cursed him when he shouted to the man to light lamps.

An automobile was standing at the curb and Brophy leaped into it, ordering the chauffeur to catch the taxi. Brophy's chauffeur did his best, but the machines were about evenly matched as to speed and the space between the two was not diminished appreciably as they sped northward, other cars swerving in behind them.

At One Hundredth Street, Miss Carlsen, accompanied by Melvin Lynch of No. 469 Lenox Avenue, was about to cross Central Park West, when Policeman Sullivan, sighting the oncoming taxi, shouted, "Look out there!"

Miss Carlsen tried to go forward. Lynch, according to the policeman, tried to pull her back. The tug of war lasted only an instant, but in that instant the whirling taxi bore down on the couple and struck the girl.

Brophy continued the pursuit, leaving the injured girl to Sullivan. At One Hundredth and Sixth Street the fugitive taxi swung to the left, the chauffeur intending to dash west through the cross street. But the turn at high speed over the rain-slick pavement was made too recklessly and the car crashed into the lamp post.

The chauffeur was unhurt. He leaped to the street and ran, but Brophy overtook him and led him back to the point where the girl had been struck.

She was being placed in an ambulance for removal to Knickerbocker Hospital. She was painfully cut and bruised and, it was said by the doctor, probably was hurt internally. However, that she would recover.

The fugitive chauffeur said he was John Riordan, of No. 439 West Fifty-second Street. He was locked up at the West One Hundredth Street Station, charged with felonious assault.

KATHERINE PAGE WEDS IN PALACE OF BRITISH KING

U. S. Ambassador's Daughter Becomes Bride of Charles G. Loring in Chapel Royal.

MANY NOTABLES THERE.

English Government Represented by Premier Asquith and Sir Edward Grey.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Miss Katherine Alice Page, daughter of the American Ambassador to Great Britain and Mrs. Walter Hines Page, was married at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon at the Chapel Royal, St. James's Palace, to Charles Greely Loring, son of Gen. Charles Loring of Boston. The ceremony was performed by Bishop Boyd Carpenter, sub-dean of Westminster Abbey, assisted by the Rev. Edgar D. Sheppard, sub-dean of the Chapel Royal. The bride was given away by her father, and her brother, Frank Page, was Mr. Loring's best man. The Chapel Royal was tendered for the occasion by King George.

The wedding was simple because the Ambassador's family desired to avoid anything resembling a social function while the war is in progress. The floral decorations were beautiful but not profuse. Members of the Government, representatives of the Royal Court and diplomats present wore morning dress. The invitations virtually were limited to persons in official life and intimate friends of the family, the guests numbering hardly more than a hundred all told.

All the Ambassadors to Great Britain were present with their wives, and the British Government was represented by Premier and Mrs. Asquith and Sir Edward Grey, Secretary for Foreign Affairs. The military and naval attaches of the United States Embassy acted as ushers.

The bride's gown was of white tulle over crepe de chine with rows of old Brussels point lace around the under-skirt. Her veil was of white tulle edged with pearls and she carried a small wreath of orange blossoms.

The bridesmaids, Miss Frances Leggett of New York, Miss Katherine Section of Auburn, N. Y., and Miss Joan Cavendish-Hentlock of London, wore gowns of ecru lace with skirts in three flounces and with little jackets of green tulle shot with silver. Their hats were of black tulle and velvet and they carried lilies-of-the-valley.

After the ceremony, Premier Asquith, Sir Edward Grey and the Ambassadors signed the register. Mr. and Mrs. Loring then went to the Page residence in Grosvenor Square, where they said good-bye to a few close friends before departing on their wedding trip. There was no formal reception. After a brief period spent in England Mr. and Mrs. Loring will go to the United States and will be at home after Sept. 8 at their residence in Otis Place, Boston.

Among the gifts received by the bride were a fan made of amber and old lace from King George and Queen Mary, two large cut glass vases from the American Society of London and two silver fruit dishes from the American Luncheon Club.
